DENSE FORESTS and plunging cliffs attract nature lovers to the rugged, unspoiled beauty of Tassajara, accessible via a winding, precipitous road connecting with the upper Carmel Valley Road. In the winter and spring, clear pools fed by icy mountain streams invite hardy explorers to enjoy an impromptu swim. See special Resort Section with this issue for story and more pictures. Don't give up . . . new boiler for pool is on the way for sure, maybe

Somewhere between Illinois and California, Carmel school officials feverently hope, there is a train with a flatcar on which sit two boilers for the Carmel High School pool.

But as much as he hopes this is true, the school district's business manager, Walter Hinton, won't believe it until he sees the boilers himself.

It was early May when the 23-year-old boiler that heated the pool gasped its last gasp and blew up, plunging water temperatures down to the frigid-icy range.

The school board promptly authorized Hinton to get a new heating system installed at a cost of approximately $5000. The units were ordered from the one manufacturer in the United States who has the right size boilers to fit the space available under the pool.

Originally, everyone thought they would get here about the time school was out. Not so.

Then a man at the boiler company told Hinton he had loaded them onto a train himself and that they would be here by June 26 for sure.

They weren't, and when Hinton checked back two days after the "firm" arrival date, someone else told him the boilers had not been shipped yet.

And as of yesterday, they still had not been sighted.

Hinton said the school district would cancel the order if there were some other place to get the same type of boiler, but there isn't.

"So we're stuck," he acknowledged glumly.

What all this means is that the bus system taking children from Carmel out to the Carmel Valley community pool for swimming lessons is going to continue for a while yet.

In fact, Hinton said, he is now checking into the possibility of painting the pool during this forced period of idleness, so that it won't have to be done next summer.

Whenever the boilers come, Hinton said, it will take three or four days to get them installed and have the pool back in operation.

IT SEEMS LIKE OLD TIMES to Art Fosso as he resoles a boot at his new shoe repair shop in the Village Center, adjacent to his upholstery shop behind the Texaco station. Fosso's father was a shoe repairman in Boston, and he began learning the trade when he was barely tall enough to reach a last. After being an apprentice, for no pay, he started out years ago earning 15 cents an hour. Possibly that experience spurred him to go into decorating and upholstery work. But when he recently had the opportunity to buy some old shoe repairing equipment almost identical to what he operated as a boy, he decided to go ahead and provide Carmel Valley residents with a much-needed service. Fosso is prepared to repair luggage, leather hassocks and other items as well as shoes, and has extensive background in filling orthopedic prescriptions. (photo by George T.C. Smith).

Crime prevention device for Valley residents

NOW, AT LEAST, there is something a Carmel Valley resident can DO to lessen the possibility that his color TV set, or stereo, or jewelry or deer rifle will wind up in the hands of a burglar.

He can participate in Operation Identification, a program sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents of the Monterey Peninsula in conjunction with Peninsula law enforcement agencies.

The principle is as simple as writing your name on your belongings; only instead, you etch your driver's license number on whatever you feel is likely to appeal to a burglar.

Then, if the item is stolen, the burglar will have a hard time pawning it because the number is absolute proof of rightful ownership, and police can identify it within minutes by checking with a computer in Sacramento.

To further reduce the possibility that your home will be burglarized, once you have etched an identification on pawnable items in your home, you can put a decal on your front window or door which states that all items of value have been marked for ready identification by law enforcement agencies.

The small, hand-held etching pen is available without charge or obligation from the office of Lou Allaire Insurance on Delfino Place in the Village.

Any Valley resident, whether or not he has insurance with this office, may borrow the etching pen.

A pen and decals are also available at the Carmel police station.

The program, which originated in Monterey Park, Calif., nine years ago, is now going on in more than 150 communities.

IS IT A DETERRENT? In Monterey Park, the 6,000 homes that don't participate have had 2,000 burglaries since 1963. Of the 5,000 that do take part, only 20 have been hit by burglars in that time.

And the program isn't just for private homes. Construction companies throughout the country are marking their tools to cut down on theft, and business firms are marking office equipment.

Across the nation, there were nearly 2.2 million burglaries in 1970, according to the latest available FBI statistics. This is an increase of 72 percent over 1965. On a national average, only one in five burglaries are solved.

The same upward trend in burglaries has been noted in Carmel Valley, where prevention is difficult because so many homes are hidden from view from the street or from neighboring homes.

However, even marking items is not likely to stop the type of wanton vandalism which left one of Carmel Valley's lovliest homes in near shambles two weeks ago.

The owners returned to find their house had been burglarized over a weekend for the third time in two years. In addition to the theft of numerous items, the shocked owners found the master bedroom completely torn apart with glue poured all over a king-sized bedspread; cupboards in the living room opened with broken contents strewn about; and, in the kitchen, an incredible mess concocted of salt, flour, maple syrup and peanut butter.

Wine and liquor were missing, including magnums of vintage wine. Outside the carport was coated with oil. And, perhaps worst of all from their viewpoint, five young eucalyptus trees had been broken apart and freshly-planted plants had been uprooted.

"A man's home is NOT his castle anymore," said the horrified owners, who prefer to remain anonymous.

They confess to feeling "frustrated and frightened," and are now asking themselves if they made a mistake in choosing Carmel Valley for their home.

Vandalism of a different sort has recently plagued the pool at the Carmel Valley Community Center. Rocks and pebbles have been hurled into the pool, clogging the drainage and filter systems and damaging several parts.

Although the school district uses the pool for classes during the summer, all maintenance costs are borne by the board of the Community Center, which means that the residents of Carmel Valley are the ones who must pay for the senseless destruction -- or face the loss of the pool.

THE TOWN CRIER

Crews from Department of Fish and Game hatcheries and planting bases are again stocking catchable-size trout in the following Monterey County waters this week: Big Sur River, Los Padres Reservoir, Carmel River.

The DFG reminds anglers that rising summer temperatures and falling water levels may make some streams unsuitable for trout. In these cases the planting schedule will be changed without notice.

A refresher-training course for Water Safety Instructors, who need updating is to be held under the auspices of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross at Carmel Valley Community Center. The two sessions will be taught by Phyllis Crockett, instructor-trainer, on Saturday, July 8 and Sunday, July 9, from 9 a.m. to noon. No fee is charged.

A special news program on "The WOMAN Voter" produced and narrated by Hannah Davidson of Carmel Valley will be shown on KSBW-TV, Channel 8, next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

The showing will be part of the station's supplementary political coverage during the Democratic convention in Miami. It will be repeated the week of the Republican convention, on Aug. 23 at 8:30 p.m.

The half-hour show includes interviews with nationally-known political experts, local people active in politics and "the man in the street" as they discuss how and why women vote the way they do.

Appearing on the program from Carmel Valley will be Rae Black, Jim Poulos, Ken Van Hagen, Nancy Strathmeyer, and Win and Pat Griffith.

Val Verde developer seeks go-ahead without required access road

AFTER ALMOST 11 months out of the public spotlight, the proposed Casas de Carmel condominium development on Val Verde Drive at the mouth of Carmel Valley will be back on the agenda of the Monterey County Planning Commission next Wednesday at 2:25 p.m.

Developer Thomas Gamboa is seeking elimination of a condition in the use permit for the development which requires him to have an access road to the development in addition to Carmel Valley Road.

Attorney George Walker, representing Gamboa, said yesterday that he feels the condition is probably illegal "because there is no way my client can meet it legally."

Walker said that most of the property owners along Val Verde Drive had been contacted about forming an assessment district to pay for improving the road south to Rio Road, but that he had not been able to get support from 60 percent of the owners as required by law.

The other alternative that has been suggested -- to get an easement across the Kandlbinder estate going west to the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center -- has also been impossible to achieve, Walker said.

"We have no connection with that property at all," Walker said.

Walker said that "procedurally, this is the only thing we can do to get this matter back before the Board of Supervisors. They can go ahead with this road anyway (through condemnation procedures) but we can't."

WHEN THE planning commission approved the use permit for the controversial 45-unit development a year ago, it first included a condition that Gamboa provide a primary access route other than Carmel Valley Road.

The same day, the planners voted to delete the condition after Walker strongly protested that it placed an unfair burden on Gamboa.

Residents of the area took the matter on appeal to the supervisors, who re-instated the condition by a 3 to 1 vote.

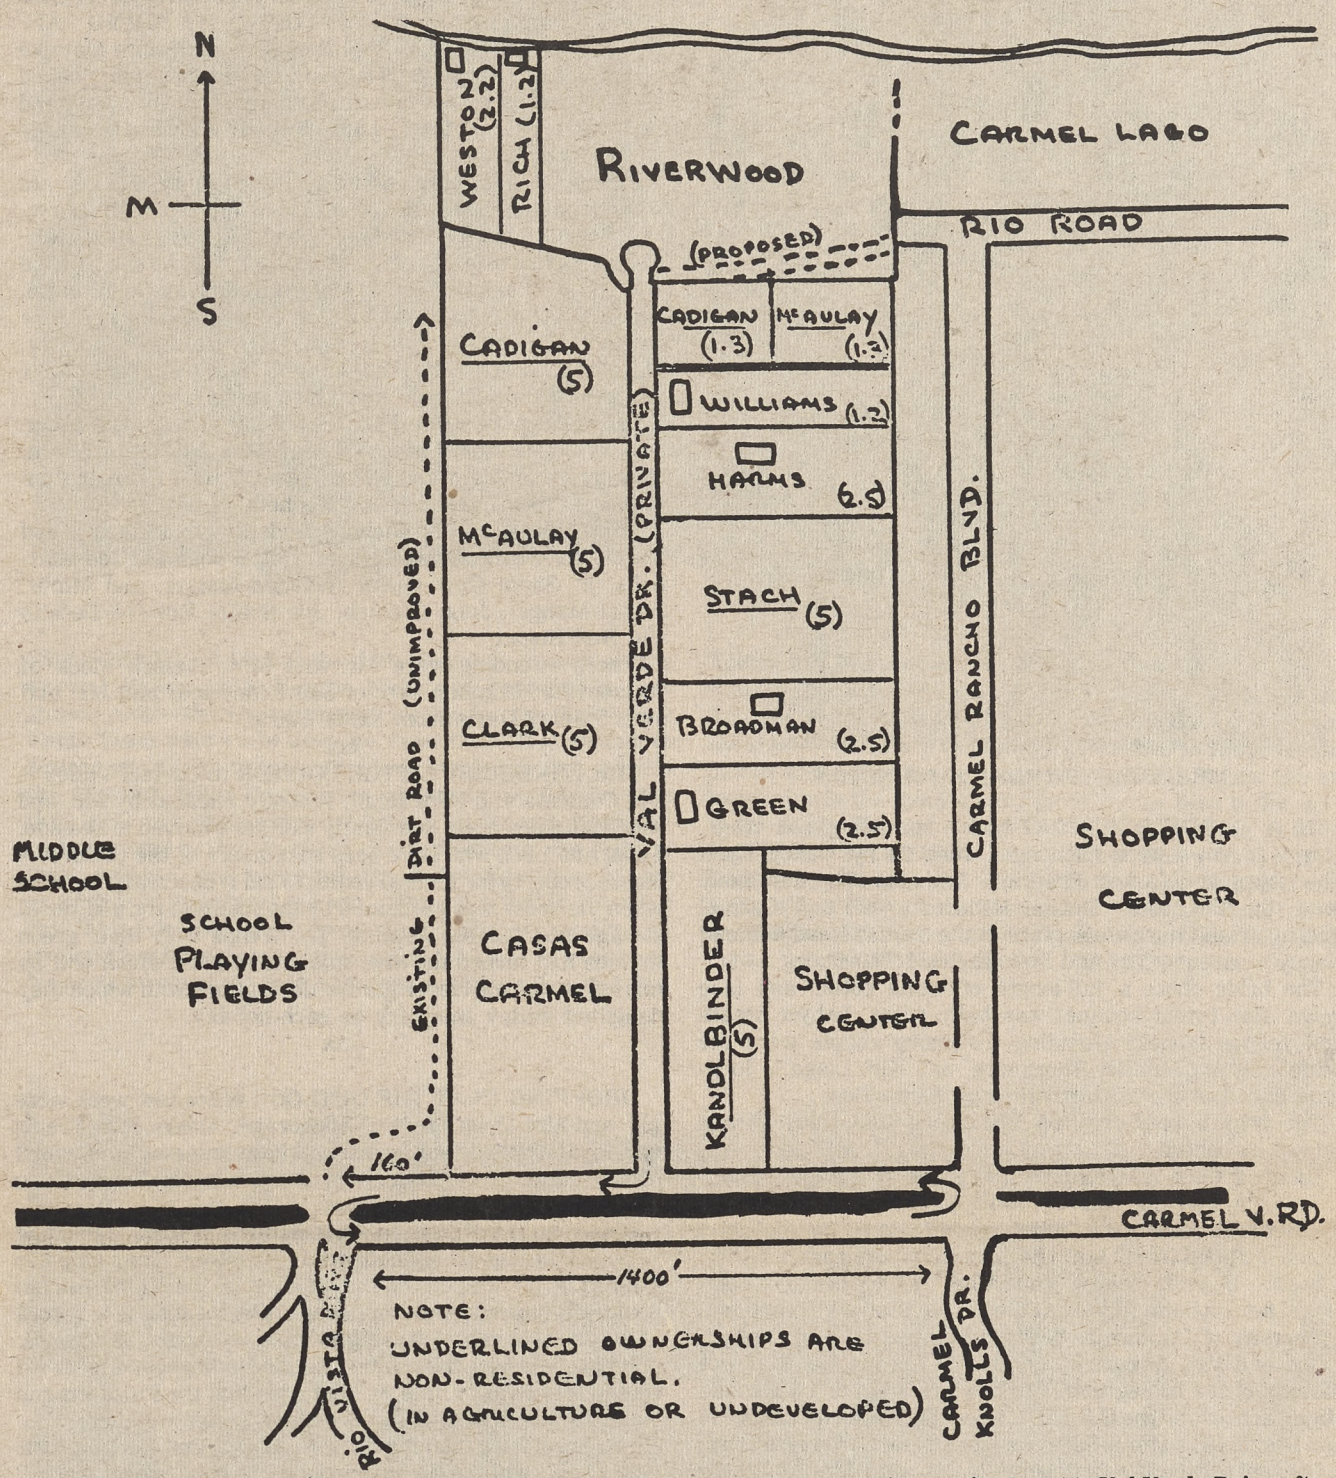
At a three-hour public hearing, numerous residents of the area, as well as spokesmen for the Carmel Unified School District and the county road department, argued that traffic generated by the development would have to negotiate two U-turns along a high-speed portion of Carmel Valley Road, thus adding to an already dangerous driving situation.

Before moving to add the requirement for another road, Supervisor Willard Branson of Carmel Valley commented that "There's no doubt in my mind that Highway 1 entering Carmel Valley Road constitutes the most critical traffic problem in the county."

Walker didn't disagree with Branson's assessment, but argued that since the problem was larger than the development itself, the county should help by condemning land for a through road on Val Verde Drive.

Supervisor Loren Smith seconded Branson's motion "with the understanding that if it does develop that the conditions can't be met, (the developer) can bring it back through the planning commission to this board if necessary, and the board, to straighten out an unhappy traffic situation, might be willing to exercise eminent domain."

Supervisor Warren Church voted against the motion on the grounds he opposed the density and did not want the use permit approved. At the time he commented that he was "not interested in using public time and funds to help the developer."



GETTING TO AND FROM Val Verde Drive isn't always the easiest trip in the world, as this map indicates. In its present form, the dirt road rises to its intersection with Carmel Valley Road and two lanes of divided east-bound traffic. To go west to Carmel or the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, the Val Verde motorist must first turn right, go east a short distance, and then make a U turn into the west-bound lanes. Similarily, a motorist wanting to get to Val Verde Drive after a trip to the mid-Valley or points east, must go to Carmel Rancho Blvd. and make a U-turn to head east again. Road Commissioner Bruce McClain has stated that it would be impossible to cut through the divider strip to facilitate access to Val Verde Drive because that is the point at which traffic is being channeled to go north or south on Highway 1.

Susan's Soliloquies

LATE REGRET

Days into weeks
that taste of personal futility;
heart rending
to give a love back to God, to tear part of your heart out for God to keep until you can kiss it again.

Hey! I miss you,
and you know I love you.
Did you see my grief, my tears,
the crystal beads that bled my face;
did you hear me say,
"I love him, God, don't take him!"

Perhaps
you were too tired to catch my weary syllables, the plaintive words which held no weight to balance up your passing from me.
If I could only hold your hand once more and tell how much you mean to me, perhaps the pain would lessen;
perhaps
I didn't love you enough when I had you;
so, here we stand . . .
you so far away
and me with futile flowers in my aching hand!

A LIFETIME DREAM to operate a flower shop has come true for Phyllis Burns of Hitchcock Canyon, the new proprietress of the Flower Bucket in Carmel Valley Village. Roses and gladiolus are her personal favorites, but she plans to keep a full array of fresh flowers available for Valley residents. Flowers are shipped by refrigerated truck from San Jose, and special orders can be filled on one-day notice. Delivery service is available. Her shop will be open every day but Sunday, and she has plans to expand her offerings to include choice pastries and baked goods. If all goes well, by mid-August customers should be able to pick up a festive dessert and flowers for the dinner table at the same time. Phyllis and her husband, Jim, are the parents of four children ranging in age from 9½ to 4 years old. (photo by George T.C. Smith).

MRS. JAMES FREDRICK JOHNSTON

IN A GARDEN SETTING under spreading oak trees, marriage vows were exchanged June 24 by Nancy Lynn Thornburg and James Fredrick Johnston. The ceremony read by the Rev. Deane Hendricks of the Carmel Presbyterian Church took place at the Garzas Road home of Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thornburg.

The bride chose a full-length off-white cotton and lace gown. Her bridal bouquet was baby roses, baby's breath and yellow daisies. Attending the young couple were the bride's sister, Jennifer Thornburg, and Kirt Lloyd, a long-time friend of the bridegroom from Santa Rosa.

The bride's brother, Don Thornburg and Dave Fisher served as ushers.

Danicng until midnight to the music of "Easy Street" followed a wedding feast—champagne and hot Greek hors d'oeuvres preceded the buffet dinner served on the patio which included Greek lamb barbecued by the bride's father.

Nancy, a graduate of Carmel High School, has just completed her sophomore year at the United States International University of California, Western Campus, at San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Johnston of Corona Del Mar are parents of the bridegroom. He is a graduate of La Canada High School and the U.S.I.U. California, Western Campus in San Diego. His sister is Suzanne Johnston of Corona Del Mar.

Oregon will be the first home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston when they return from a European honeymoon. They were planning to buy a VW camper in Germany and tour for eight months.

BRANCHES FROM A TREE on the Cachagua –sprayed with gold—formed the money tree which was presented to Mr. and Mrs. O.S. Bryan at the surprise party at Princes Camp honoring their FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY. Thelma Cole, Shirley May and Louise Matejke planned the celebration. The beautiful wedding cake, baked by Betty Hoiberg, was presented compliments of Helga and Rex White. Emma Bossard and Helga White were in charge of the hors d'oeuvres.

Among those paying tribute to the Bryans golden years were: from the Cachagua: Messrs. and Mmes. Ralph Juarez, Pat Powell, George Boughner, Floyd Hoiberg, Alex Cole, Norman Ambrosini, Fred Tuttle, Charles Anderson, Harold Steinmetz, Charles Olmsted, Manuel Rodriguez, Emil Pozzi, Richard Keller, Raymond Tangen, Roger Aldridge, Horley Rind, Anton Jensen and Rex White. Also Nita Halferty, Margaret Gale, Addi Branstetter, Shirley May, Jerry Mullins, Marvin Tierney and Cloyd Anderson.

Driving out from the Monterey Peninsula were Messrs. and Mmes. Gordon Campbell, Roy Matejke, Dean Smith, Herbert Rasmussen and Allen Bossard. Also Eleanor Conzelmann, Tony Carlascio and Kenneth Tomsyck.

From Salinas came: Richard Anderson and Messrs. and Mmes. Joe Scarbulis, sr., Darrel Butterwort and Joe Scarbulis, jr. Santa Cruz guests included Messrs. and Mmes. Albert Mungai, John Franich, Joe Bosso, Edward Peretto and Bud Hogan.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mock of Watsonville; Dominic Orso of San Francisco; and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davis from Santa Clara.

THE LONELIEST LITTLE CORNER in Carmel Valley is Via Contenta and Pilot Road, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Avila and family who have moved to Seaside. Leoni and Lori, who have been caretakers of the Children's House property for several years, found it necessary to move when the house was reclaimed by the Institute for additional storage and teacher housing. The Avilas with their green thumbs had turned the area into a mini-park which will be missed as will the clever garden decorations with which they delighted Valley small fry on each holiday.

DROPPING IN AT THE OUTLOOK office last week were Mr. and Mrs. John Trent of Anchorage, Alaska. The Trents are loyal Outlook subscribers, whose interest in Carmel Valley came about because of the five acres they own in Cachagua near Princes Camp.

Both John and Marcie are long-distance runners, belonging to an Anchorage group called the Pulsators. They came to California to compete at Culver City in the Third Annual Senior Championship Games, where Marcie set a new record at the age of 54 years, running 26 miles in 3 hours, 43 seconds.

John confessed that "the heat and smog got me and I couldn't finish after mile 20," but adds that the Pulsators run outdoors in Anchorage in -29 degree winter weather.

The Trents are heading back to Alaska this week in their 1966 Chevy with 89,000 miles on it. "I hope we make it," smiled John. After two more years with the FCC in Alaska, John and Marcie hope to retire in Cachagua.

OUT AT STILLWATER COVE it was also "graduation day" on the Fourth of July when the class of ten young sailors who have been taking two weeks of instruction in the El Toro Stillwater Yacht Club Junior Program competed in a series of six races. Trophies were awarded first through fourth place to Robin Jeffers, Colleen Condon, James Glaser and Anne Pirotte. Others completing the course and awarded plaques as a result were: John Pirotte, Laurie Thorngate, Joe Martin, Katie Glaser, Girard Martin and Chris Stanley. Wearing their new white sweatshirts with the Cypress Tree design, also awarded during ceremonies, the young sailors then enjoyed a barbecue and fireworks on the beach. Special guest at the affair was Miss Linda Hall of the San Francisco Yacht Club who had instructed the young group of seafarers. A champion skipper in her own right (winner of the Adams Cup with a two woman crew), Miss Hall was presented with a cypress tree charm for her bracelet. The charm and Linda are en route to Nicaragua where she will be a part of a US team for three weeks giving inoculations to the people of that country. Upon her return, she will enter Wesleyan College in Middletown, Conn.

FORMER VALLEY RESIDENTS, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Gayman, daughters Carla and Kim and son, Lee, were holiday houseguests at the Holt Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Vince Cal and family. Lee, a former CVLL Tiger and his family, now of Redding, were special guests at the potluck barbecue and swim party hosted at the Cal home following the district play-off in Carmel. Players Tom Frincke, Vince Cal, Kevin Washington, Shane Hattan, Peter Deoudes, Tim Sherman, Rogue Hattan, John Frincke, Ross Tennant, Steve Gere, Brian Pearson, and Garth Hattan, their coach, Bill Conlan, sr., and manager, Roger Sherman and their families celebrated the end of the 1972 Major League season.

ALL STARS WIN: NINE-THREE!

The 1972 Carmel Valley All Stars playing together for the first time as a team, defeated the 1972 No-Stars (coaches, managers, umpires, fathers, spectators!) 9-3 at the traditional holiday ball game which preceded the annual July 4 western CV Little League Barbecue. Two home runs hit by Augie Acuna and one by Bill Colohan, sr., were the only scores allowed by the All-Star players.

In post game ceremonies conducted by Roger Sherman and Bill Conlan, sr., "graduation certificates" were presented to each of the 12-year-old boys who are leaving the League: Danny Azcarate, Steve Sepersky, Chris Alexander, Jeff Mink, Rogue Hattan, Stephen Horan, Bill Colohan, Scott Sweiss, Larry Cummings, Shane Hattan, John Frincke, George Lockwood, Rodney Eldridge, Doug Weller, Mark Neidinger, Steven Gere, Tom Frincke, Mark Raynes, Eric Borsting, Steve Draper, Steve Allard, Chip Sundley, Kevin Colton, Bruce Weineman, Chris Kelly, Lori Avila, Tony Scardina, Rodney Warren, David Patton, David McKenzie, Brian Stauffer, Sam Davidson and Tom Nason.

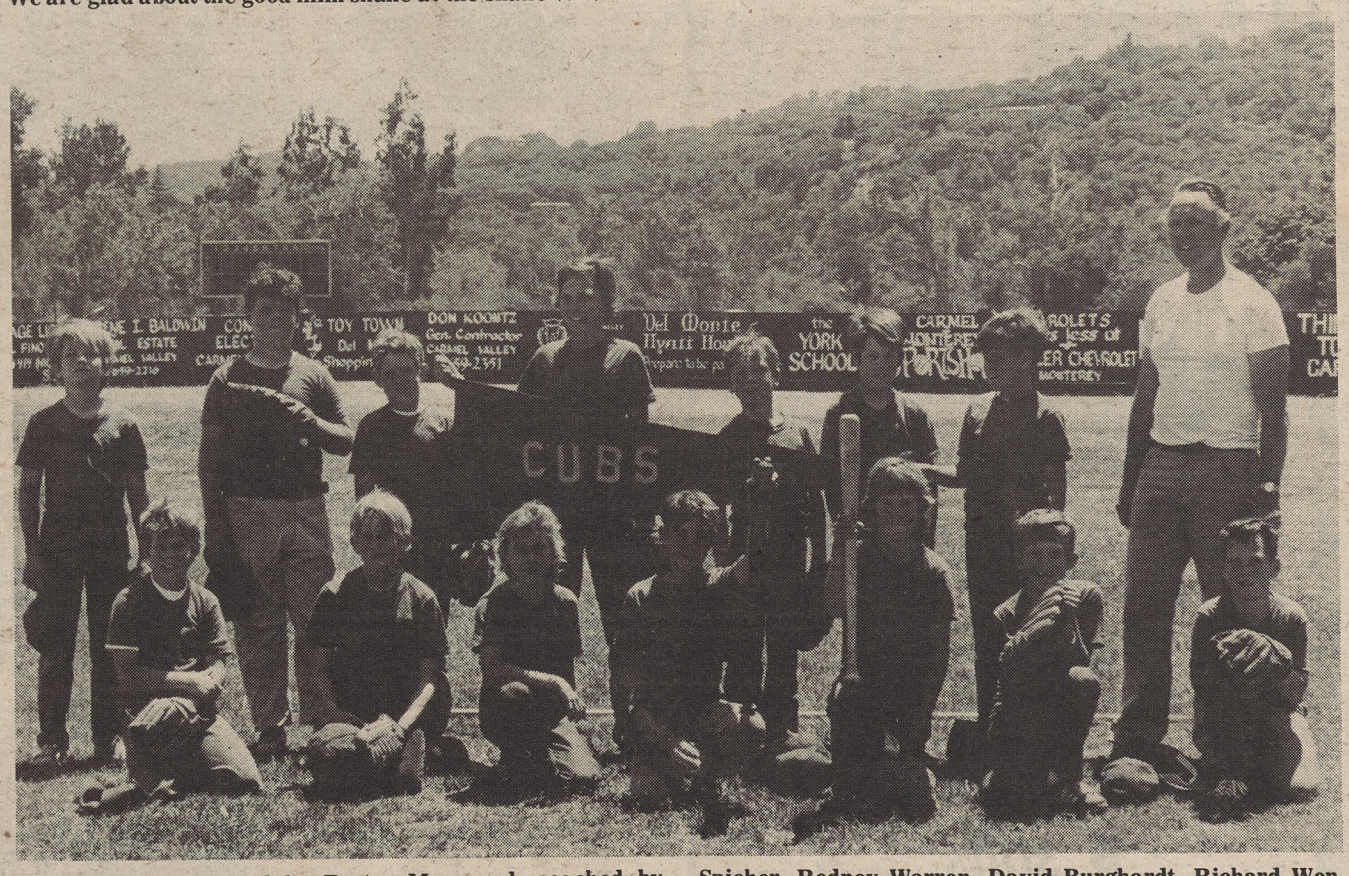
Scott Sweiss and Chris took over m.c. duties to present two surprise trophies, Scott to Dick McKenzie, "the greatest manager in the world," and Chris Alexander who said in his presentation speech, "The trophy reads, 'to the greatest coach in the world' and to us he kinda was...Bill Conlan, jr.!" The high praise and awards were made from the members of the major team, the Volunteers.

The coveted All Star pins were presented by Conlan and Sherman to: Bill Colohan, Jeff Mink, Rod Eldridge, Steve Horan, Steve Gere, Steve Sepersky, John Frincke, Rogue Hattan, Tony Scardina, Tom Frincke, Mark Raynes, Scott Sweiss, Dan McDonald, and Peter Deoudes.

Trophies to the Major and Farm Team series winners were accepted by Tod Gebhart and Warren Kaufman coach and manager of the Pirates; Clifford Washington who represented Will's Fargo, who are Pirate sponsors; to Dick Crane and Jimmy Conlan, coach and manager of the Major champions, the Lions; and Jack Black, president of the Carmel Valley Lions who sponsor the team.

THE PIRATES RAN UP the Jolly Roger last week at the Carmel Valley Little League Field and captured a rare golden prize—the championship trophy for the first place Farm Team with a win over the Cubs 12-11! It is enough to restore one's faith in miracles since this is the first year in the 14 which Will's Fargo have sponsored the Pirates that they have won the pennant! Coached by Warren Kaufman and managed by Tod Gerhart, the excited boys ran right to their dug-out and compiled the following letter of appreciation to their loyal sponsor: "Dear Uncle Will, We wish that their (sic) was more sponser (sic) like our team's and we hope you keepsponsoringour team for the years to come. We are glad about the good milk shake at the snake (sic) bar. And we are glad that the Parents came to see us play. And we want to thank the lady that let us use the field, we are thankfull (sic) for the fair umpires, and the anounsers, (sic), and the scorekeep. I liket (sic) playing baseball in Little League games and I liket being sponsored by Wilsl Fargo. We are happy to win the Bennet (sic) for Will, and here is the score 12-11! It was like this - 1-7; 9-10 and the final score, 12 to 11! Eric Collas, Kevin Colton, Frank Collas, Barry Powell, Billy Kaufman; and the rest of the Pirates; Chip Sundlee, Lori Avila, Chris Kelly, Tom Nason, Joe Victorine, Stuart Wolf, and Raymond Cloyd. p.s. And thanks for are Bat Boy, Ivan Collas." CONGRATULATIONS, PIRATES!

IRENA BILLINGS and Carmel Valley painter Joe Ataide at the Gawthrop-Eastwood welcoming cocktail party in Pebble Beach Saturday evening. The party was given for the participating celebrities, local tennis buffs who had helped with the annual tournament, and representatives of the beneficiaries: six youth-oriented charities. The informal atmosphere at the Pebble courts, as well as the limited size of the crowd during the July 2-4 competitions, gave ticket holders a fine chance to actually mingle with the likes of John Wayne, Jonathan Winters, Bill Cosby and Charlton Heston.



THE CUBS, sponsored by Porter Marquard, coached by Bruce Matson and managed by Dick Wenzlik were the runners up in the Carmel Valley Little League Farm Team Championship Play-off. Team members include: Dwight Spicher, Rodney Warren, David Burghardt, Richard Wenzlik, Richard Foote, Curtis Vout, Matthew Jackson, Jay Kunkle, Greg Nord, Dale Hendricks, and Mike Vout.

ALL OF THE ACTION may be at the Carmel Valley Community Swimming Pool this summer but manager Ken White and his "Marine Staff" of 16 have the situation well in hand. Due to a factory delay, the high school pool, which normally handles half of the district's summer recreation swim program, is busing swim lesson students to the Valley at 8:30, 9:30, and 11:50. Total enrollment DAILY has 290 Valley children in classes, 217 from Carmel, 90 members on the Swim Team and 15 participating on the Diving Team...and don't forget the numerous swimmers in that recreational time alloted between 1:30 and 4! Buses, parents, bicycles, horses and pedestrians come and go and through it all the staff keeps its cool with a smoothly running operation. Ken White expresses his sincere thanks to all of the parents for their patience, and cooperation during this pecod of infinite delay. The Barracuda Swim Team has opened the snack booth at the Community Center between 9 and 4 p.m., where swimmers may find hot dogs, drinks and candy.

STUDIO ARTS TOUR SCHEDULED FOR JULY 15

Mary Lou Morse, who will open her home and studio in Pebble Beach for the 12th Annual Studio-Arts Tour, is an associate in the Valley Hills Gallery of Carmel Valley which has been in operation here for four years.

A graduate of the University of Washington, Mrs. Morse turned her attention to perfecting the art of copper on enamel after specialized study at the Grant Beach School of Arts and Crafts in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Morse uses this art form of ancient Egypt and other early civilizations in a unique contemporary interpretation which is rare in this medium.

In some pieces she uses silver wire to make a modern cloissone of enamel on copper. Some are framed as pictures and others combine many individual pieces on one decorative panel, made possible by the use of new adhesives.

"I attempt to abstract nature in a unique and individual manner," says Mrs. Morse.

In many of the panels created by this talented artist, pattern flows between sections of enamels on the background in reversed stained-glass suggestion.

Mrs. Morse uses much imagination in the various ways she handles this versatile medium.

According to Mrs. Morse an absolutely steady hand is required in her form of art, as one slight tremble at almost any stage of the creation could destroy days of work.

The design for some of the larger panels may take many weeks of concentration, and applying the enamels is an exacting task, since the enamel employed is powdered metallic oxide which may shift or flake.

"If one grain of the powder jumps out of place," says Mrs. Morse, "it could destroy the design."

The artist's work has been sold throughout the country, and she has received commissions of architectural scope.

Mrs. Morse has also been active on the docent council of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art who are sponsoring the tour on Saturday, July 15 between 10 and 5.

THE NEW EMPORIUM in Salinas is conveniently located in the Northridge Shopping Center, Hiway 101 at Boronda Rd. 135,000 sq. ft. of shopping area on two floors house the Emporium's many departments of top brand merchandise. The San Francisco based store celebrated its 76th Anniversary in May.

Big 'E' opens today near Salinas

The Emporium will add its name to the Salinas Valley commercial world as it opens its new $6.5 million three-story department store on a 55-acre site at the corner of Boronda Road and Highway 101 at 9:30 a.m. today.

Jack Barnes, Mayor of Salinas, will join Peter Orlando, store manager, in cutting the ribbon which will officially open the store.

Among the dignitaries present will be Ardern R. Batchelder, chairman of The Emporium Capwell Company Division of Broadway Hale Stores, Inc., along with Robert G. Wilhelm, president of The Emporium Capwell Co. and Charles A. Haine, general manager of The Emporium.

Ninth suburban store in The Emporium chain, the 179,000 square-foot store has 135,000 square feet of selling space on two floors linked with escalators with clear glass die panels and a passenger elevator. The interior will have an emphasis on individual "Boutique" departments with different color schemes defining each area.

Visitors to the center will find parking for more than 3,500 cars adjacent to The Emporium building. The site will be landscaped with hundreds of trees and shrubs, including Monterey pine, evergeens, elms, silk oaks, with English ivy and junipers.

Major departments include men's, women's and children's apparel, home furnishings, shoes, housewares, bedding, sporting goods, appliances and numerous specialty services including a beauty salon.

The store will be a part of the largest retail complex between San Jose and Santa Barbara. Phase I on construction, containing a total of 55 acres will have more than 600,000 square feet of retail space in a fully enclosed mall with The Emporium, Penney's (due to open in October) and 50-60 specialty shops. Future plans allow for a third major department store and additional retail space totaling over one million square feet on the fully developed 80-acre parcel.

The site of the store was formerly called "Home Ranch" owned and farmed by members of the Christensen family for more than 50 years. Andrew Christensen originally bought the land in 1916 from Gus Anderson (who acquired it from the Jacks family in 1900) to provide income for his family in farming wheat and beans.

In 1924 a water well was dug on the land which provided irrigation for the first strawberries ever grown in the Salinas Valley. The "Home Ranch" was farmed in later years by Walter, Harold, and Andy, jr., under the name of the Christensen Brothers. The land was acquired by Sutter Hill in 1969.

Employment figures for The Emporium total 250 persons with approximately 95 percent drawn from Salinas and the surrounding communities. The sales staff will be 250, with 70 in sales supporting areas, along with a group of 30 executives.

Building was under the direction of O.W. Litsinger, with Paul J. Berry and Harry G. Evans of The Emporium Capwell Co. Clyde Whitlow was project architect for Welton Becket and Associates, and Marvin Davis superintendent of the construction for Dinwiddie Construction.

Architects for Northridge Center are James W. Foug of James W. Foug & Associates of Mountain View. Contractors for the center are Ernest Hahn Co. of Hayward, and landscape architect is Robert W. Adsero of Mountain View.

Dressage clinic set Saturday

Herman Friedlaender, one of the top dressage judges and instructors in the country, will conduct a horsemanship clinic for experienced adult riders at the Trail and Saddle Club on Saturday.

Registration for the clinic has already been filled, but the public is invited to watch classes, which will start at 9 a.m. and continue until late afternoon.

Spectators should bring their own lunches, as no refreshments will be served.

Born and raised in Germany, Friedlaender is a graduate of the Cavalry School of Hanover and studied under Andreas Eckhardt. He was later equerry for the Princess of Hesse.

He has been a member of the AHSA Dressage Committee since its establishment, and is currently on the United States Equestrian Team advisory council.

Friedlaender maintains a small stable in Soquel, where he trains horses and riders in the art of classical horsemanship.

THE FIRST BREAKUP of the walnut orchard that has marked the corner of Esquiline Road and Carmel Valley Road for years is underway to make way for 12 garden apartments. The apartments will be in three redwood and stucco buildings on a parcel of approximately one and one half acres, about midway between Carmel Valley Road and the Carmel River. The project was originally approved for Arnes Kippenes last October. Kippenes has since sold the property to a group of four people, including a Berkeley architect who designed the units.

RAINFALL

No rainfall this season to date

The Fourth of July passed uneventfully for the Carmel Valley Fire Department, with no local fires or emergency calls. However, on June 3 eight men and one truck responded to a mutual aid call at the scene of the Oxnard Cannery fire on Cannery Row.

There was one first call this week. On Wednesday, June 5 at 4:26 p.m. the department answered a fire call at the Anita Silver residence at 33 Esquiline Road. The "fire" turned out to be a smoking oven, with no resultant damage.

Also on Wednesday, at 6:15 a.m., the Valley Volunteers were called to a local doctor's office to transport Greg Reeves Wilson to Community Hospital by Red Cross ambulance where he was treated for a lacerated wrist and forearm.

Germany builds great luxury cars. BMW is the one that shows how much you know about them.

One thing you always get as standard equipment with any German luxury car is a great feeling of prestige.

However, if you're more interested in a different kind of prestige, the kind that comes with knowing you own the best engineered luxury car for the money, you should be considering the new BMW Bavaria.

The Bavaria is fast. It will cruise all day at 120 mph with no strain. Thanks to an amazingly efficient smooth and turbine-like ohc engine — the most advanced of its kind in the world.

The Bavaria is sure. Its rear wheels never change camber no matter how rough the road. Thanks to the most sophisticated suspension system ever conceived.

BMW's new Bavaria is also exceedingly comfortable with interior appointments and fittings that are tasteful rather than decadently plush. The whole emphasis is on go instead of show.

If you're shopping for the world's most prestigious car — a true Germany luxury car, better see every model. Then, if you can recognize a great buy in luxury engineering, you'll find there's really only one choice.

EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE we find ourselves compelled to go into the animal rescue business -- although we try to resist the temptation. There are simply too many dogs and cats running about in need of "rescuing."

But sometimes, as we drive along local roads, an individual dog's imminent danger forces us to pull over and lend a hand. Once, there was a frightened, lost German Shepherd running up to every car stopped for the Highway 1 and Ocean Avenue signal light. She'd been left at a strange house for the day, it turned out, and had set out for her own home and become lost. The SPCA lent a hand there, giving the dog bed and board until her frantic owners turned up.

Another time, there was a young male Doberman trotting gaily down the center of Carmel Valley Road (where cars breeze by at 60 miles an hour), totally unconcerned about traffic. His owners never did believe in keeping him at home, and eventually he was struck down by a car and killed, not far from where we first picked him up.

Yesterday we simply had to stop at the sight of a little white Poodle sitting in the middle of the eastbound lane of Carmel Valley Rd. at the very top of the dangerous Farm Center hill. The dog crossed the road and sat in the other lane as we stopped our car. We slowed a school bus and a huge semi-trailer in time to save the dog, and scooped this little guy into our car and off to a friendly vet's office to search out his owners.

Sometimes the danger to these dogs is so real and so imminent that one can't simply pass them by. We see enough dead dogs and cars (and deer, raccoons and oppossums) each week to know just how dangerous our lovely country roads really are.

To that end, we were visiting another vet recently when a dry-eyed young lady arrived to say she had a dead Basenji in her car — her fourth dog to be killed in less than a year on the road near her home. Some people never learn.

Of course, there are some people who profit from one sad experience and, having lost one pet, swear to never again let a dog or cat out loose to tempt fate. More and more people thankfully, are beginning to realize that life is too high-speed and urbanized to continue to treat their pets as though they truly lived in the country.

WHILE WE'RE talking about road dangers, someone asked us to mention the fact that extremely dry conditions again seem to be driving wildlife down to "civilization" where private homes and gardens and the trickle in the Carmel River offer some greenery and water.

An uncommon number of roadside casualties has been observed, including deer, raccoons, squirrels, a fox and many oppossums. These animals usually come out of the hills and canyons at dusk or after dark and they are both a danger and in danger as they cross any traveled road.

The headlights of oncoming traffic "freeze" these creatures in their tracks and render them incapable of flight. Please drive with extreme caution after dark, as the presence of any animal on the road creates a serious hazard to an automobile. Scanning the sides of the roads for the reflected gleam of animals' eyes can afford warning time for slowing down . . .

A RABID BAT floundering in a Carmel swimming pool last week was rescued by the property owner who, in turn, was bitten for his efforts. When laboratory examination proved rabies, the person had to undergo anti-rabies treatment.

Although the incidence of rabies has been low in Monterey County in recent years, the disease does occur and outbreaks may appear at any time. Bats, skunks and foxes are the animals most frequently seen with the disease.

According to Dr. R.S. Fraser, Director of Public Health for the County, pet dogs are in more danger from rabid animals than cats. "A dog tends to protect his property," Dr. Fraser said. "If a dog sees a sick skunk, he tends to go after it. A cat doesn't do that."

Dr. Fraser emphasized the need for all dogs to have current rabies vaccinations. He also cautions residents to be suspicious of any wild animal that acts strangely. "Any wild animal you can approach or accost is probably sick," he said. "It may be too sick to run away." Children, in particular, should be warned against attempting to pet or catch "tame" wild animals as there is always the possibility they may have rabies.

Any suspiciously-acting wild animal should be reported at once to an animal control officer at the Animal Shelter in Marina. Trained personnel will collect the animal for you and observe it for rabies.

Dr. Fraser also advises summer campers to avoid sleeping directly on the ground. A cot or bed should be provided.

Any animal bite should be reported to your own physician immediately. Although the treatment to prevent rabies is not pleasant, it is not nearly as bad as people have been led to believe it to be. There is no cure for rabies, except death itself. If you are bitten don't foolishly delude yourself into thinking "it's nothing." Get medical care and advice at once.

WHERE CARMEL VALLEY ROAD MEETS HIWAY 1

VALLEY DAYS ARE WARM AND SUMMERY, but there's always that delightful afternoon breeze that comes skipping up the Valley, rustling leaves on the trees and running its cool fingers through the tassels of corn growing by the road just past Valley Hills. Now and then little puffs of clouds linger over the rolling hills, adding to the serenity...fading away in the magnificence of the red and gold sunsets that light up the sky to the West.

TENNIS IS IN FULL SWING at Carmel Valley Inn under the watchful eye of Beau Connell, the Inn's Tennis Pro and Recreation Director. Children's clinics are held Tuesday and Thursday mornings and afternoons (call the Inn to sign your youngster up for these popular sessions). You'll remember Beau as Director of the Annual Chick Adamick Charity Tournament, held in January. Charcoal broiled hamburgers and hot dogs are getting full play these days by the Inn's sparkling pool.

POPULAR RON BLAIR has been held over through this Saturday at the Hatch Cover. His selections run the gamut from Western to folk; from blues to pops...something for everyone. A good way to spend the evening...dinner at the Hatch Cover, then catch Ron's first show at 9 in the lounge.

MORE ABOUT ART, popular bartender at Rancho Canada. There's hardly anything Art hasn't done...stevedore, baker, electrician, merchant seaman...and even a six-year stint with the East Bay Municipal Utility District...and military service in both the Army and the Navy. All the while keeping his hand in at bartending. If you've tried his drinks, you'll know he's one of the best. Speaking of the best, the special golfer's breakfast at RANCHO CANADA is every bit that...a great way to start the day. Especially in such a great setting.

THIS IS PLAZA LINDA'S NINTH YEAR. It was just that long ago that Dean Jr. spotted the location on Delfino Place and passed the word on to the senior Diaz. Thus began Plaza Linda...still serving the best in Mexican food. A little known fact...Dean Jr.'s grandmother started the first tortilla factory in Salinas. Along with the factory, she had a restaurant, so the Diaz family's restaurant background goes back many years...with a fourth generation coming up.

ASK JOE GARLAND to do his Showboat medley next time you're in JOE'S SALOON at LOS LAURELES LODGE. Joe plays the piano, sings, and even does an old soft shoe. Get up a party for an evening at LOS LAURELES. Joe will sing with you or play the piano for you while you sing. Favorites are his George M. Cohan routine, "Tiny Bubbles," "Winchester Cathedral," "Volare," and "That Old Gang of Mine." The saloon is open daily from 4 p.m. (except Monday and Tuesday).

Three greats in the same week!

By FRANK RILEY, CULTURAL DIRECTOR

Three greats in the same week!

First: Forest Theater Guild opens with Twelfth Night at the Forest Theater for the first of twelve performances on Thursday (tonight). Everything is super and all systems are "go." This is history happening.

Second: The ten-week series of free "Sundays at the Forest" begins on Sunday with the magnificent Black Raven Pipe Band. They parade from Sunset Center to the Forest Theater (San Carlos to Ocean to Mt. View to Theatre) and then present a gala program of piping, dancing, singing and marching on the Forest stage. This is history expanding.

Third: On Monday, the musicians of the Carmel Bach Festival arrive and start work in earnest for this, the Festival's 35th season. Concerts begin on the 21st and continue through the 30th each evening at 8:30 p.m., with a youth concert on Tuesday afternoon and the annual Mission Concert on Wednesday evening. This is history immutable.

I am sure each event is fully covered elsewhere in the Pine Cone, and I urge you to "read all about it" -- the edition may not be an "EXTRA," but the news surely is.

Dames at Sea' – a delightful musical take-off on all the old-time musicals

"Dames at Sea" opened the summer theatrical season in Carmel last weekend, a fittingly light-hearted musical which brightens the Studio Theatre stage.

Designed as a parody of the fanciful movie musicals of the distant '30s, "Dames at Sea" asks nothing of the audience but to sit back, relax, and soak up singing, dancing and an unlikely story which takes an orphaned theater cast to sea on -- of all things - a U.S. battleship.

Bill Asp has assembled an interesting cast for these goings on -- some experienced talent along with some bright young newcomers. Altogether it makes for a fun-filled evening. The production numbers are well knit, the tap dancing routines are nostalgic and expertly choreographed by Akemi Ito, and a waif from Centerville, Utah, steps courageously into the star's role and gets her man.

Well, that kind of story-line was great 40 years ago and for the older generation, at least, it is great fun to see it all over again blurred as it is as a grand spoof.

A cast of six may seem extravagantly small to replace the dazzling cast of hundreds in those grand old musicals, but somehow it works. The parody carries over into the songs, the effect of which may be a little fuzzy if your memory from many a yesteryear is also a little fuzzy.

Jeannie M. Hughes, as always, is great as Joan, the big-hearted chorine who holds it all together. She lights up any stage with her vibrant personality and her way with any song. Karen Bevelander as Ruby the bewildered unknown who escalates to stardom in a twinkle projects all the naivete anyone could ask. She has a difficult and demanding role and for one so young, brings it off amazingly well.

Then there is professionally -experienced Donna J.R. Conne, a newcomer to the Studio who is delightfully abrasive as Mona Kent, the domineering, sexy star who collapses, of course, when the big show opens.

Fred White Buck and Frank Silva as Dick and Lucky are the sailor-entertainers with an extremely winning way with a song. And Bill Kramp doubles as the producer and the battlewagon captain and makes beautiful caricatures of both.

Young Greg Granoff gets credits both for musical direction and piano accompaniment, the latter in lieu of a 40-piece pit orchestra, and his talent is superb.

Produced by Robert H. Evans, jr., who with Bill Stone came up with exciting sets, the credits must also extend to Judy Evans who is responsible for the lavish costuming which is one of the highlights of the show.

"Dames at Sea" was a big hit on Broadway for a year and a half, the creation of George Haimsohn and Robin Miller. It will add luster to the local theater scene through Aug. 5. GMD

'Twelfth Night' at Forest Theater

Charles Thomas, director of the Forest Theater Guild's production of Twelfth Night has been involved in Shakespearean productions since he appeared in Two Gentlemen of Verona some 40 years ago. In that time he's appeared in and directed a lot of Shakespeare, and he says of the cast of tonight's Twelfth Night, "It's the best Shakespearean cast I've ever had."

In the cast of the play, which opens tonight at Forest Theater and which will be produced on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights for the next four weekends, are: Edwin Chapman--Orsino, Stephen Fry--Sebastian, Alan Robb--Antonio, Brink Harrison--A Sea Captain, John Fitzmaurice--Valentine, Jeff Hudelson--Curio, and David Hughes--Sir Toby Belch.

Also: William Lewis--Sir Andrew Aguecheek, Donald J. Ross--Malvolio, Frank Favalora--Fabian, James Mairs--Feste, John Fitzmaurice--First Officer, and Jeff Hudelson--Second Officer.

Vee R. Mariano will play Olivia; June Ballinger--Viola; Lauren Cottrell--Lady in Waiting, and Evelyn Hughes--Lady in Waiting.

The role of Maria, waiting-woman to Olivia will be played by Tanyss Martula in the July 6, 7, 8, and 13, 14, 15 performances and by Evelyn Hughes in the July 20, 21, 22 and 27, 28, 29 performances.

The technical staff for the production consists of Cole Weston, Stage Manager; Ruth Jordan Allen, Scenic Designer; Adele Bramlet, Costume Designer; William Lewis, Heraldry; Stephen Bickford, Master Carpenter; Tony Mariano, Properties Manager; Margot Hyatt and Helene Parsons, Publicity Directors; Kim Weston, Margot Hyatt and Roger Fremier, Production Photographers; and Mr. Fritz, of Del Conte Beauty Studio, Hairstylist.

The Forest Theater Guild's Producer for the play is Carmel City Councilman Gunnar Norberg, Charles Thomas is Director and Barbara West is Speech Director.

All performances begin at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.50 for students and enlisted military personnel. They are available at Burchell Realty, northwest corner of Ocean and Dolores, Monday through Friday from 10-12 p.m. and 2-4 p.m., and at Lily Walker Records and Music, 169 Forest Ave., Pacific Grove.

Tickets may be obtained through the mail by writing Box 1500, Carmel 93921. For further ticket information call 624-6838.

Carmel Valley Land

The scenic wilderness of historic Featherbow Ranch in Monterey County's enchanting Carmel Valley is now being allocated to 40 acre retreat estates. Environmental standards call for preservation of the natural beauty of the hilly, tree-covered land and protection of its abundant wildlife. No available property in California offers such picturesque seclusion without being trapped in isolation. Modern shopping and professional facilities, restaurants, schools and churches are just 14 miles distant. You may live in close, enriching harmony with nature from $975 per acre in parcels of 40 acres or more. Terms available. Call (213) 651-3434 or (408) 659-4182 for further information.

THE PIPERS ARE COMING: Two members of the Black Raven Band, a Scottish pipe band, get ready for their march and concert Sunday afternoon at the Forest Theater, Santa Rita and Mountain View. The event launches the traditional series of ten free Sunday afternoon outdoor programs at the Theater sponsored by the city of Carmel.

Scottish Pipers Sunday launch fre outdoor Forest Theater programs

The ten-week series of free Sunday afternoon programs at the Forest Theater is a Carmel tradition. And traditional to the series is the annual appearance of a Scottish pipe band.

This season will recognize both traditions with the gala opening of the 1972 series on Sunday by the performance of San Francisco's renowned Black Raven Band.

Recognizing throughout the Western States and Western Canada as one of the great pipe bands, the Black Raven entourage, under the direction of pipe major W.S. Cathro brings to the Forest Theater not only the traditional pre-program street parade to the Theater, not only the traditional piping and marching on the stage, but, in addition, two groups of dancers and a vocalist.

Featured on the program will be Scottish tenor James Wright, the Royal Scottish Country Dancers from Palo Alto and the Black Raven's own Highland Dancers. the parade starts at 1:30 p.m. and the program at the Forest Theater at 2 p.m.

It is hoped that by opening the season with the performance that in past years has been the most popular, added impetus and interest will be provided for the current season. Other programs of the ten-week series will include several old favorites and several completely new innovations. The variety includes operatic arias, old-fashion band concerts, barbershop harmonies, mariachi music, modern dance, ballet and children's theatre.

The series of ten free concerts is sponsored by the City of Carmel through its cultural commission and is under the direction of the city's director of community and cultural affairs, Frank Riley. They are offered for the enjoyment of the public. Everyone is welcome to attend all performances.

BUT EVERYTHING
IT ISN'T.

Next time you count your assets—count your blessings too. Like loyal friends, good health and all life's happy moments. And don't forget your other riches—the cool snap of an autumn day, a solitary stroll or the music of wind in the trees. We're in the business of money—but that's not all. We encourage our people to get really involved in those activities that make neighborhood life a better life. In most of our branches we provide meeting rooms for community use. Would you like a booklet that explains how you can help protect your environment? We printed one. It's just one of the few small things we're doing to try to help. Theres' a lot of money at Northern California Savings. But there's a lot more than money here too.

ISLANDS OFF THE CALIFORNIA coast? Not quite...this is a view from Chew's Ridge as a sea of billowing fog engulfs the valleys below.

Upper Valley has many delightful places

By SALAMAH NEWELL

HAVE YOU DISCOVERED all the wonders of Carmel Valley? Best known for its amiable climate and sunny days, green and golden hillsides and leisurely country way of life, Carmel Valley is justly famous for the quality of its resorts, restaurants and interesting shops, mainly concentrated in the area from Laureles Grade to Carmel Valley Village. But there is another, less-known part of Carmel Valley, east of the Village, towards Jamesburg and Cachagua.

Driving east out the Carmel Valley Road about 4½ miles, you come to the first Cachagua Road, next to the Wagon Wheel campgrounds. Cachagua Road winds its way up into the hills, past farms and homes, with cattleguards along the road to keep the cows from straying. About seven miles of beautiful forest driving brings you to Princes Camp, at the gateway to Los Padres National Forest.

Princes Camp was started in the 1920's by Sam Prince, and was later purchased by the water company and turned into a camp for the workers on Los Padres Dam. Now owned by Rex White, the camp has 50 mobile home sites, 13 modern cabins, and offers fishing in both the Carmel River and at Los Padres Dam. Both are stocked weekly with rainbow and some brook trout by the Department of Fish and Game, and the fishing's good!

Los Padres National Forest, occupying the back country between Cachagua and Big Sur, offers opportunities for back-packing, camping and fishing. The necessary entry permit can be obtained from the Forest Ranger Station at the entrance to the National Forest. A fishing license is necessary if you plan to fish.

PRINCES CAMP is at the junction of Cachagua and Nason Roads, and if your idea of a perfect day includes a scenic trail ride through the beautiful Cachagua Valley on a good horse,with a delicious barbeque steak lunch waiting for you at the end of the trail, then you might like to know that the rides leave from the Nason Ranch on weekends. You can make reservations by calling 659-2621.

Go just a half mile further on the Cachagua road, and you'll see the Jamesburg Earth Station (COMSAT), which maintains earth-satellite communcations in the Pacific Ocean zone for the United States. The site for the Earth Station was selected because of its "electronic purity." It is located in a shallow valley where its disc antenna is not within sight lines of radio waves or microwave systems. Full operations were begun in December, 1968, with the relay of the Olympic Soccer Games from Mexico. The Jamesburg Earth Station has often been in the news with such television relays as the first man moon-walk, and most recently, President Nixon's recent visit to China, which was transmitted directly from Shanghai to satellite to Jamesburg for relay throughout the nation.

A tour of the Earth Station, available by appointment on Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 1-3, can be arranged by calling 659-2293.

IF YOU'RE ADVENTUROUS, and your car has good brakes and shock absorbers, you might like to take a trip to Tassajara Hot Springs, a favored pastime of many Valleyites. You can continue on the first Cachagua road until you reach the Tassajara Road, of if you are starting out from Carmel Valley Road, take the second Cachagua Road, which is marked "To Tassajara."

If Carmel Valley seems like a haven of peace, coming from the city, Cachagua is even more rural and peaceful, but superlative peace is to be found at Tassajara, where natural sulphur hot springs have been piped into the baths, sure to relax both mind and body. There is a sauna bath, a cool stream to splash and cool off in, a large swimming pool, and a natural stream-fed pool called the Narrows, where you can slide down a moss-covered waterfall into the clear, cool water.

Originally used by the Indians, their legend of a wonderful cure of an Indian girl by the waters of the hotsprings is painted on the outside wall of the baths. Once operated by the Park System, Tassajara is now a Zen Monastery, open to the public from May 1st until September 30th. The hours for day bathers are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., the cost is $2.00, and picnic grounds and free hot coffee are provided. There are cottages for overnight guests also, but reservations are needed in advance. There are Indian caves within hiking distance of Tassajara, and if you want to combine camping-out with a visit to Tassajara, there is camping at China Camp in Los Padres National Forest. No camping is permitted on the Tassajara Grounds.

The Zen students at Tassajara grow much of their own food, and are widely known for their Tassajara Bread and the Tassajara Bread Book, sold at the Monastery office.

Returning to the Valley from Tassajara, you descend through several levels of forest, pine, madrone and manzanita, then the familiar and beautiful white oak. Soon you are back on Carmel Valley Road, with the peace of the mountains inducing a quiet, happy mood to your feelings.

Suggestions on driving to Tassajara

The following suggestions are offered to make your ride to Tassajara more comfortable and to ensure the least wear on your car. The road is fully graded and maintained by the County of Monterey and is fine for all automobiles and trucks, day or night.

During the summer plan on driving in either during the morning, before 11:00 or in the the late afternoon, after 3:30 or so. It is likely to be quite warm at mid-day.

It is advisable to stop at a service station, either in Carmel Valley or Greenfield, as the mountain road demands quite a bit of gasoline, and there are no stations in Jamesburg or in Tassajara Springs. Ask the attendant to check the oil, water, brake fluid and tire pressure.

It is best to use low gear on both the up and down-grades. On the down-grade use gentle on-off pressure on the brakes. Should they begin to fail chances are that they are simply hot because you have been riding them too much. Wait a short while and continue when the brakes are cool.

Some of the approximate driving times: from Carmel Valley, 1½ hours; from Monterey 2¼ hours; from Greenfield, 2 hours; from San Francisco, 5 hours; from Los Angeles, 8 hours.

MONTHS OF MANUAL LABOR went into this recently-completed addition to the Zen Buddhist center at Tassajara Hot Springs. Guests are welcome to share the quiet, contemplative life of the remote community for a day or longer during the summer and fall months.
